Teammate Message from Bill Rogers:
SunTrust and BB&T Announce Plans to Merge

Feb. 7, 2019

SunTrust Teammates,

I am happy to share with you extremely exciting news for the future of our company. This morning, we announced that our Board of Directors has approved a definitive agreement through which SunTrust will combine with BB&T in an all-stock merger of equals. Through this combination, we will become one of the premier financial institutions in the country with 275 years of combined history serving clients and communities. As I have mentioned many times before, great companies don't stand still in their quest to provide exceptional client service – today's announcement is a testament to that and to our client first mindset.

I have been with SunTrust for my entire career. Be assured, no one is more attached to the SunTrust brand than I am – all that we stand for and all that we have done. I know that Kelly King feels likewise about BB&T. Yet, while we honor and respect our past, we elected to create a new brand that reflects our collective potential.

Kelly King and I have known each other for a long time, and I have a tremendous amount of respect for him, his leadership team and the BB&T associates. Individually, SunTrust and BB&T are incredibly strong purpose-driven companies, which is why we will be even better together as we leverage our respective strengths to respond to the ever-evolving needs of our clients. As a combined company, we will have the necessary scale and profitability to accelerate our capacity to invest in transformational technologies for our clients and teammates, which will create a sustainable competitive advantage for our business in a digital-first world.

Highlighted below are key details on the new company that reflect the equal contribution both banks will bring to the new institution:

- Kelly King will serve as Chairman and CEO of the combined company until September 2021, at which point I will take over as the CEO of the combined company. For smooth transition, Kelly will remain Executive Chairman for six months, after which I will become Chairman and CEO. Until then, I will serve as President and COO of the combined company, effective upon closing of the transaction, which we expect to be at the end of 2019.
- The new company will operate under a new name, which will be determined prior to closing.
- The combined company's Board of Directors and management team will be evenly split between the two institutions.
- Members of the new proposed management team include Scott Case, Beau Cummins, Allison Dukes, Ellen Fitzsimmons, Ellen Koebler and Joe Thompson. I have discussed options with three of our current Executive Council members – Jorge Arrieta, Margaret Callihan and Mark Chancy – and they are not planning to move forward in their current roles to the new combined company. They are long-term outstanding leaders who are fully engaged in working through this transition.

- The new company will establish a new corporate headquarters in Charlotte, NC. The new company's Wholesale Banking Center will be in our hometown, Atlanta, and the new company's Community Banking Center will be in Winston-Salem, BB&T's current hometown.
 - Both SunTrust and BB&T will maintain a strong presence and financial commitment to their current home markets. The new company will commit to increasing each bank's current community investment in both Winston-Salem and Atlanta.
 - The new company will establish an Innovation and Technology Hub in its new headquarters to drive transformative innovation and technology initiatives.

We believe this merger will enhance your ability to stay on the cutting edge of clients' demands. Our two organizations are incredibly compatible, and together, further the realization of our performance promise of being the best financial services institution. Together, we will preserve and maintain our strong cultures to deliver superior client service and preserve the community bank model. We will also deliver a collective set of training, leadership and development programs to retain the industry's top talent across our expanded career opportunities.

On Monday at 10 a.m. ET, the SunTrust leadership team and I will be hosting a webcast from Atlanta to discuss what today's announcement means for us. Given limited seating in the Gardens Atrium, you can view the event live via webcast. Watch for a meeting notice. We'll also post a replay on Spotlight shortly after the Town Hall for those that don't have access to watch live. In the meantime, please visit our merger website at www.thepremierfinancialinstitution.com for further information.

I know this is a lot to take in and you probably have many questions, which we will endeavor to answer as we move through this process. Please know that details on how our combined company will operate will be worked out in the coming weeks and months, and will be determined by an integration team made up equally of members from BB&T and SunTrust. I promise to keep you updated with key developments.

For now, it is important to remember that until the close of the transaction, SunTrust and BB&T will operate as two separate companies. I am going to rely on you to continue providing the exceptional service our clients have come to expect of us.

I am extremely excited for what this means for SunTrust and our future. You will all play a pivotal role in ensuring this merger is a success for our clients, communities and your fellow teammates. Thank you for your continued commitment, focus and hard work. I look forward to meeting with many of you at the Town Hall and over the next few weeks to discuss our bright future.

Bill

What does the announcement mean for SunTrust?

SunTrust will combine with BB&T in an all-stock merger of equals creating a premier financial institution with 275 years of combined history in serving clients and communities.

Merging with BB&T will allow us to leverage each company's respective strengths to respond to the ever-evolving needs of our clients. As a combined company, we will have the necessary scale and profitability to accelerate our capacity to invest in transformational technologies for our clients, which will create a sustainable competitive advantage for our business.

What does this mean for me?

For now, it is important to remember that until the close of the transaction, which is expected to occur in the fourth quarter of 2019, SunTrust and BB&T will operate as two separate companies and we should continue business as usual.

A capable integration team made up equally of members from BB&T and SunTrust will be making numerous decisions that will determine how our combined company will operate. We will keep you updated with key developments.

Who will run the new company?

Both SunTrust and BB&T's leaders will play vital leadership roles in the combined company. The combined company's Board of Directors and management team will be evenly split between the two institutions.

Kelly King, BB&T Chairman & CEO, will serve as Chairman & CEO of the combined company until Sept. 12, 2021 after which he will serve as Executive Chairman for six months. Upon close, Bill Rogers, SunTrust Chairman & CEO, will serve as the combined company President & COO until Sept. 12, 2021 after which he will become CEO for six months and then will become Chairman & CEO.

Members of the new proposed management team include Scott Case, Beau Cummins, Allison Dukes, Ellen Fitzsimmons, Ellen Koebler and Joe Thompson. Three of our current Executive Council members – Jorge Arrieta, Margaret Callihan and Mark Chancy – will not be planning to move forward in their current roles to the new combined company.

What is the name of the combined company?

In a reflection of the equal contribution both banks bring to the new institutions, the companies will operate under a new name, which will be determined prior to closing. We have a dedicated team in place with equal representation of leadership from both sides who will work through this process as part of the integration.

Where will the new company be headquartered?

The new company will establish a new corporate headquarters in Charlotte, NC. The new company's Wholesale Banking Center will be in our hometown, Atlanta, and the new company's Community Banking Center will be in Winston-Salem, BB&T's current hometown. The new company will also establish an Innovation and Technology Hub in its new headquarters to drive transformative innovation and technology initiatives.

What can I expect in terms of integration? How long will it take? Will integration be complete in Q4 when the transaction is expected to close?

Integration won't formally begin until we close the transaction. We will put capable integration teams in place with equal representation of leadership from both companies and they will be handling these decisions and will be drawing upon the very best of both organizations to incorporate the best talent, processes and systems. Our goal is to complete integration shortly following the expected close of the transaction in the fourth quarter of 2019.

When will I get updates on integration? How often?

When the integration team has news to share, we will share information with teammates.

Is my job safe? Are branches going to close?

SunTrust and BB&T remain separate companies until the transaction is complete. Capable integration teams with equal representation of leadership from both companies will be handling these decisions and will be drawing upon the very best of both organizations to incorporate the best talent, processes and systems.

How will my day-to-day job change? Will my reporting structure change? Will there be layoffs?

For now, it remains business as usual. SunTrust and BB&T remain separate companies until the transaction is complete. We will both run our respective businesses to deliver for our clients.

Do I need to update my LinkedIn, email address, business card, etc.?

For now, it remains business as usual. SunTrust and BB&T remain separate companies until the transaction is complete.

What impact will this have on my compensation and benefits?

For now, it remains business as usual. SunTrust and BB&T remain separate companies until the transaction is complete.

Are there opportunities for me available at other locations?

It is too soon to answer that right now.

What does this mean for our Purpose or the onUp movement?

For now, it remains business as usual and nothing changes regarding our Purpose and onUp movement. We expect the shared culture and focus of our institutions will only continue to advance financial well-being.

What does this mean for SunTrust Park?

This does not change our commitment to SunTrust Park. In a reflection of the equal contribution both banks bring to the new institutions, the companies will operate under a new name, which will be determined prior to closing. However, for now, it remains business as usual. SunTrust and BB&T remain separate companies until the transaction is complete. It is too early to determine whether changes may occur after the transaction closes.

What is Kelly King like? How do I know he will respect our culture?

Bill Rogers and Kelly King have known each other for a number of years and have tremendous respect for each other and their respective institutions. Our cultures are compatible – we share the same mission and purpose-driven mindset – and together we will take the best of our cultural pasts to propel us toward becoming the best bank of the future.

What is the culture of BB&T like? How will we fit together?

Our compatible cultures share the same mission and purpose-driven mindset, and both will only be enhanced through this combination. Our shared culture embraces the disruption of technology and we will take this innovative mindset to drive a sustainable competitive advantage and expand our leadership in the next chapter of these historic brands.

Will this transaction change the services we offer? How?

Our services will only be enhanced as a result of this transaction. As a standalone company, we are strong, but together with BB&T we can create the premier financial institution of the future. With enhanced scale and financial strength, the combined company will accelerate investment in transformative technology to embrace disruption and create a more distinctive client experience.
