On September 17, 2018, Univar Inc.'s CEO David Jukes sent certain employees an email reproduced below regarding the proposed acquisition of Nexeo Solutions, Inc.

From: UNIVAR CEO

Dear Colleagues,

I am thrilled to share with you the news that Univar has agreed to acquire Nexeo Solutions, a leading chemical distributor in North America and global plastics distributor. Combining our two companies will help accelerate our vision to be the most valued chemical and ingredient distributor in the world, and I wanted to personally share with you my thoughts about this important next step for us.

This transaction is about growth. It is an exciting combination of forces designed to accelerate the transformation already underway here at Univar—and importantly, to create new opportunities for our people. By uniting the “best of the best” from both organizations, together we expect to deliver industry-leading customer and supplier experiences by enhancing our product offering, extending our market reach, accelerating digital innovation, and continuing to optimize and leverage scale throughout our supply chain. Our combined enterprise will have one of the largest sales forces and provide an opportunity to build the most efficient supply chain network in our industry.

How does this acquisition help us achieve that? Combining our two exceptional teams will position us to serve more customers worldwide with improved service and a broader array of products across key end markets. We will also benefit from an expanded talent pool, where we can leverage unparalleled expertise across both companies in IT, sales, customer service, operations, corporate support functions, and a host of other important areas

We also anticipate benefiting from Nexeo’s best-in-class ERP infrastructure, which will accelerate our own digital transformation. With world-class warehouse management systems, asset tracking technology, and real-time online order management systems, we’ll improve our customer experience and simplify how we work—making us easier to buy from and the place where the best people want to work.

This is big news for us all, and you’ll undoubtedly have lots of questions about what this means for you. It’s important to understand that for now, nothing changes, and it is business-as-usual. That means maintaining focus on our existing priorities: Commercial Greatness, Operational Excellence, and One Univar—as well as our absolute focus on safety. We remain separate companies until the transaction closes, which is anticipated to occur in the first half of 2019, as the deal is subject to approval by both Univar and Nexeo shareholders, as well as receipt of regulatory approvals and satisfaction of other customary conditions. During that time, we must continue to operate business as usual.

Many of you may already know that Nexeo is a leading distributor of chemicals and plastics, and their chemicals business drives the majority of their profits. It is our strategy to remain focused on our core business as a distributor of chemicals and ingredients, and we have hired an external advisor to evaluate strategic alternatives for Nexeo's industry leading Plastics business, which may include a potential divestiture of the business. We will share more information as this process progresses.

To assure a seamless transition once the deal closes, I have created a dedicated Integration Management Office (IMO) led by Jen McIntyre (as Chief Integration Officer) and Steve Richards (as Director of the IMO). We already have begun identifying leaders from both companies who will be responsible for carefully planning the details of the transition and ensuring our integration planning work sets the strongest foundation possible for the combined organization.

This kind of announcement often generates a lot of attention in our industry and in the press. Should you receive any questions from the media, you should make no comment and instead, immediately forward the email or refer the reporter to Dwayne Roark, Senior Director of Corporate Communications at dwayne.roark@univar.com or +1-331-777-6031. Also, rumors and speculation during this time are typically inaccurate and only cause harm to the business. Please avoid these at all costs.

For those of you who have access to the Internet, I've also recorded a video that provides more insight into my perspective on this important development for our company. Please take the time to watch the video [LINK].

Thanks to your dedication and hard work, I am confident in our ability to take the company successfully through this next stage of our transformation. Working as One Univar, we have the opportunity to create something truly special, where the best people, doing good work, will create great results. Personally, I can't wait to get started on this next phase of our journey together.

Sincerely,

David Jukes
