Item 8.01 Other Events.

On October 25, 2016, Meta Financial Group, Inc.'s bank subsidiary, MetaBank, entered into agreements with certain H&R Block entities ("H&R Block") to provide funding capacity for up to $1.45 billion, retaining up to $750 million, of interest-free Refund Advance loans for H&R Block tax preparation customers during the 2017 tax season. Under the agreements, Specialty Consumer Services, LP ("SCS"), will provide technology, software, and underwriting support services and BofI Federal Bank, a federal savings bank ("BoFI"), will purchase up to $700 million of the Refund Advance loans originated by MetaBank and will perform certain disbursement and repayment services.

The Refund Advance loans will be offered in varying amounts, based on eligibility as ultimately determined by MetaBank. MetaBank will receive loan origination fees from H&R Block based on volume and customer type and expects to receive approximately $32 to $36 on average for each funded loan retained by MetaBank and not sold to BoFI. The loan origination fees are intended to cover expected loan losses and payments to capital providers, among other items. In addition, MetaBank has been provided with limited guaranties up to $39 million, subject to specified thresholds. The Company expects that only an immaterial amount of the guaranties will be called upon under anticipated loss scenarios.

A copy of the press release announcing the agreements described above is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and is incorporated herein by reference.
