Nelnet Statement on Adoption of New York Attorney General's Code of Conduct

Lincoln, NEB., July 31, 2007 – Nelnet (NYSE: NNI) today issued the following statement regarding its adoption of the New York Attorney General's Student Loan Code of Conduct:

"Nelnet is at the forefront of increasing transparency and disclosure in the student loan industry. Our primary objective is and has always been to provide the best products and services to colleges and universities, students and their parents, and we firmly believe that they have added value to our customers.

"We have fully cooperated with the New York Attorney General's inquiry, and in order to put it behind us and move forward, Nelnet has agreed to abide by his Code of Conduct. The New York Attorney General's Code of Conduct effectively reiterates actions the company has already taken with respect to its student loan business, including the adoption of the Nelnet Student Loan Code of Conduct in April and its recent decisions to discontinue its marketing of consolidation loans through alumni associations and to pursue possibilities of transferring our service of outsourcing financial aid calls for schools to another company. Although Nelnet strongly believes that the outsourcing and alumni consolidation services are valuable services for our customers, proposed federal regulations and legislation also call for the elimination of these programs.

"As part of this agreement, Nelnet will contribute $2.0 million to a national fund for educating high school seniors and their parents regarding the financial aid process."
